- A MANASI KIRLOSKAR INITIATIVE Newsletter July - August 2023

Dear Readers, Caring with Colour (CWC) is a nonprofit organization working towards introducing experiential learning environments in government school classrooms of Karnataka. Our effort since 2016 has convinced us of the impact a school teacher can make on young minds. Through expert teacher training programs backed by experiential teaching methodologies, we have been bringing quality education to the young minds of rural Karnataka. Our work Training (DIET) – Tumakuru allowed us to contribute to this vital aspect of Education. The initial training program was designed to equip the newly minted guest teachers with the necessary resources to foster engaging and interactive learning environments. The training delved into teaching principles through hands-on experiences, focusing on participation, imagination and holistic growth.

government schools is gaining welldeserved recognition. Through a needbased training program across the Tumakuru and Ramanagara districts, CWC addresses the unique challenges government school teachers face. Read about our profound work and innovative educational approach on Indian Express here.

The spotlight shone on CWC's efforts, particularly their work in the village of Bannikuppe, Ramanagara, as Mr T S Chikkaveeraya acknowledged on Vistara news. This recognition reinforces the organisation's commitment to building experiential teaching-learning environments in rural classrooms. Through recognition on platforms like Vistara News and The New Indian Express, CWC's message of inclusive, experiential learning
